

P14 Implementing an Institutional-Wide Assessment Plan

Assessing Academic Advising can be a daunting task, but tackling the process institution-wide may be in your best interest. Although your college may be very different in advising models and delivery, there are opportunities to collaborate towards campus goals, procedures, and standards for advising including strategies for the evaluation of advising quality and outcomes. Join representatives from two institutions to learn the foundations for assessment and how to collaborate on your campus to develop campus wide initiatives for assessing academic advising. Participants will leave with a framework for an assessment plan, including the identification of learning outcomes and measures through which to gather evidence of achievement.
