Global Collaboration	The GIC identifies, promotes and fosters global collaborations within NACADA (e.g. Committees/ Communities) to support global membership and global connections.	Revitalized NACADA Friends Network provides platform for meaningful interactions between members and supports global connections.  GIC conducts assessment to better understand the needs and interests of individual members and allied members globally.	Increased global membership reflects an increase in global awareness of NACADA and support for academic advising as a profession.  GIC collaborates with partners to create a global professional development opportunity  Collaborations leads to increased global advising content at Regional and Annual conferences  GIC collaborates to promote International	The GIC will collaborate within NACADA with Committees and Communities, including:  Professional Development Committee  Membership Committee  Global Engagement Community  Advising Administration Community  Canada Advising Community  Inclusion and Engagement Committee	We anticipate the new NACADA strategic plan will inform the GIC's work.	The Friends' Network has been reviewed and re-envisioned as an informal way for academic advisers and advising administrators to connect. It also provides a venue for prospective members to connect and learn more about NACADA.  The GIC now has a representative on the Membership Committee.  The GIC and Advising Administration Community collaborated to	New website content and an online application utilizing Qualtrics will be ready for a re-launched of the Friends' Network as part of the virtual Global Lounge at the Annual Conference in October 2021.  Moving forward, the GIC representative on the Membership Committee will not live in an area already supported by a region (e.g. not USA or Canadian resident).  Global Lounge programming will
