						developing a Research Chat format. The PDR AC Chair and Dr. Troxel are planning to develop a “Research Brief” for the PDR AC as a prototype for other ACs. Both Keith and Wendy have been guests on our Research Coffee Chats.
Identify and remove barriers to accessibility of all opportunities for engagement and professional growth in the association to foster equity and inclusion for all members.	Communication – Review and enhance all social media and communication vehicles of the PDR AC	Identify a Social Media coordinator from the members of the Steering Committee Review all communications and social media to reengage PDR AC and to expand content with the goal of fostering equity and inclusion which will include identifying three main social media apps and updating weekly with content	At the first Steering Committee in January, we will take nominations for a Social Media coordinator; we will develop a plan to review all resources currently available and then identify the three apps we would like to support; we will then develop a plan and schedule for weekly posts from members.	N/A	Finding a member willing to take on the responsibilities of social media Members’ time in reviewing and posting to sites to keep them active and relevant	Winnie Tang, a member of the PDR AC Steering Committee, has taken the role of Social Media Coordinator. She has organized and managed our Facebook and listserv site. She is posting questions of interest and promoting our Coffee Chats on both platforms.	We will continue to use both Facebook and the email listserv as ways of communicating with our membership. Working with Dr. Wendy Troxel, we are also planning to create a “Research Brief” for the PDR AC website which will link to research in the area of PDR.
Provide practices that allow members to identify and cultivate their long-term professional development and engagement with the association. Examine and align the structure and infrastructure of the association to best support advancement of the vision, mission, and strategic goals.	Community – Provide opportunities for members of the AC to connect both professionally and personally with one another	Schedule a social event for future NACADA annual conferences to build community within the AC Within the monthly research groups (see above), have a time to share and connect with other members	At the first Steering Committee, we will nominate a Social coordinator who will plan and organize a social event at the Portland and Orlando NACADA conference During each Research Group meeting, we will take a few minutes to share challenges and triumphs to build a supportive community.	N/A	Participation on the part of busy AC members and sustainability of attendance and contribution	We have scheduled a social event at the NACADA Annual conference in Portland. We have hosted three coffee chats to date and have facilitated conversations with colleagues across the country.	As we look to begin the Research Brief project, we look forward to expanding our Research Chats as a time to connect with colleagues and discuss the PDR issues advisors are encountering..

Expand and strengthen the network of external partnerships globally to advance the vision, mission, and strategic goals of the association.	Connection – find opportunities for collaboration and consultation with other advising communities	Identify two advising communities that the PDR AC can work with to develop conference proposals, joint monthly research group meetings and possible article submission	The Steering Committee will identify two Advising Communities to contact regarding possible joint initiatives for the purpose of community building and research in the profession.	Other Advising Communities as identified by Steering Committee	Finding a good match with another AC who is interested in collaboration	As discussed above, we have worked with the Social Justice AC and the Research Committee with our Coffee Chats. We have also connected with the NACADA Center for Research to discuss new projects and initiatives related to PDR.	As we continue our Coffee Chats, we will identify additional ACs to collaborate with and work with the Center for Research and the Research Committee to host Coffee Chats and begin the Research Brief project.
