Expand and communicate the scholarship of academic advising

The FGAC would like to start a research mentoring group to encourage research, publication and presentations related to First-Generation College Student topics.

Create a sub-committee in charge of starting this program.

Keep track of progress of mentees in the program.

NACADA research committee, Jennifer Joslin and possibly ELP to make sure this is possible.

Finding time to meet and connect with mentors and mentees. We will work to create Zoom meetings and platforms that meet everyone’s needs.

<th>Provide professional development opportunities that are responsive to the needs of advisors and advising administrators</th>
<th>The FGAC Steering Committee provides opportunities for members who are interested to participate in communications, research, community building, reading proposals, sharing best practices around the country.</th>
<th>Recruit committed and continuing members to serve on the FGAC Steering Committee from different institution types and advising backgrounds.</th>
<th>Encourage members to present and get involved in leadership with NACADA.</th>
<th>Send out to TRIO and First-Gen. A.C. List Servs to recruit new members.</th>
<th>With life and job responsibilities sometimes it is hard to maintain all members, some end up leaving for one reason or another whether they change careers or move etc.</th>

<td>Expand the use of innovative technology tools and resources to support the work of the Association</td>
<td>We want to be inclusive of all platforms, so we have decided to look at creating a First-Gen. Blog that we will send out twice a year to represent First-Gen. professional stories.</td>
<td>Members of the Best Practices and Community Building sub-committees will lead this charge.</td>
<td>To provide the opportunity for members of our Advising Community to share their stories and become a First-Gen. family.</td>
<td>Social media followers and anyone who may read blogs on the internet.</td>
<td>Creating and maintaining the platform and content for the Blog.</td>

<tr>
<td>Engage in ongoing assessment of all facets of the Association</td>
<td>Our results of the 2018 Annual Conference survey we provided at the business meeting, resource fair and through email led us to the conclusion that our advisors wanted to see more scholarship through</td>
<td>We have created and sent out a FGAC Newsletter in Fall 2019 highlighting First-Gen presentations and news. Maintained our Facebook page with links to articles and member activity in the field.</td>
<td>Review proposals submitted at all levels on First-Gen. research. Perform another literature review and see if more publications have been submitted as a result.</td>
<td>Members of NACADA and NASPA</td>
<td>Creating surveys that are meaningful, so far we have sent out a communications survey as well as the previously mentioned one on research interests.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Develop and sustain effective Association leadership</td>
<td>We utilized our FGAC Business meeting to discuss ways to get involved in the FGAC Steering Committee, as well as other areas of NACADA.</td>
<td>Continue to spread the word and nominate members to run for leadership roles. Encourage steering committee members to lead sub-committees within our A.C. and network.</td>
<td>Word of mouth and seeing our A.C. members move onto other roles within the divisions. Brittany Hoover is on the Awards committee, Quentin Alexander is on the research committee, Jill Putman is in ELP, Darryl Cherry is new Chair of the First-Year Advising Community.</td>
<td>All areas of NACADA memberships and opportunities for growth.</td>
<td>Maintaining work-life balance as these are volunteer roles, so finding the time to commit and do a great job in the process.</td>
