Happy Holidays!
As we “wrap” up 2021 (see what I did there?), I’d like to thank all of you who have participated in some way—large or small—to this community. After a couple of very engaging Community meetings, I am excited for what’s to come in 2022.

Some ideas from the meetings include:
- Resources for student decision-making and self-efficacy
- Intersection of being undecided and mental health
- Developing learning outcomes for undecided advising programs
- Collaboration with other NACADA Advising Communities
- Coaching undeclared students

I have reached out to those of you who have expressed interest in becoming more involved. As always, if you would like to become more involved, or have ideas for this Community, please do not hesitate to reach out!
Member Spotlight
Do you want to introduce yourself to other community members? Sign up with our online form.

Resources
Check out our Google Drive for resources.
Join our List Serv

Stay Connected