

Allied Membership with NACADA: The Global Community for Academic Advising, encourages cooperation and joint programming with other organizations that support the purposes of NACADA. Allied membership is open to non-profit sub-regional, statewide, metropolitan, provincial, institutional, or other organizations that meet the organizational requirements.

NOTE: There is no legal involvement, connection, or obligation between the organization and NACADA, including but not limited to tax exemption status, CEU offerings, and liability insurance.

Organizational Requirements

- Have goals consistent with or complementary to NACADA goals.
- Have established bylaws or governing policies.
- Work cooperatively with NACADA and not in competition with NACADA, its Regions, or its scheduled events.
- Allied Organization Membership fees will be paid to NACADA on an annual basis.

Benefits of Allied Membership

- Access to and use of NACADA mailing lists on a reciprocal basis in accordance with current NACADA mailing list policy.
- Electronic/online presence is linked to NACADA's website.
- Identification of organization as "An Allied Member of NACADA: The Global Community for Academic Advising." Any use of the NACADA logo must be approved by the NACADA Executive Office.

Benefits to NACADA

- Promotion of NACADA membership and participation at meetings of the allied member.
- Opportunity for NACADA regions to organize by state and sub-regions so more people can be actively involved in leadership positions.
- Broadens the membership base of NACADA to include others who focus on the development of students in higher education.

Application Process

- An organizational liaison to NACADA must be identified in the allied membership application. The liaison must be a current individual member of NACADA.
- The allied member category is an option in NACADA's membership structure. Upon request from the organization, the Executive Office provides interested organizations with guidelines, requirements, and benefits of allied membership.
- The completed application/renewal form will be sent to the Executive Office with required documentation and annual allied membership fee.
- Once the membership application is approved the Executive Office will notify the new allied member.
- Allied membership is valid for one year, from September to September.
- A current membership list of the allied group must be provided to NACADA annually with the allied membership/renewal form.
